HAPPINESS IS . . .

. . . enjoying an assembly (Vicki Wilking).

(Below) . . . "Graduating" from a child's to an adult world (Dustin Hoffman when he recently appeared in Louisville).

Everyone has a different concept of what happiness is. Individual personalities dictate what happiness is to every person at New Albany High School. To an ice cream lover, happiness is a triple dip cone; while to a dedicated sports fan, happiness is a Bulldog victory. Many times what makes one happy makes all happy, such as an overwhelming snowfall which gives all an unexpected vacation or passing a final exam which counts as one fourth of a semester grade.

However, it is often the smallest or most easily forgotten occurrence that produces the most pleasure—a brief glance from that special person or spelling all the words correctly in an English composition.

Happiness is not always conveyed by a smile but can be generated by inner feelings of contentment, satisfaction, or pride which are not necessarily expressed outwardly.

Combined with other positive emotions, happiness makes NAHS an active and progressive school.

... laughing at a joke (Cristy Sodrel).

... crowning a king (Joy Koshewa, Mike Carnighan).

... dancing closely with a favorite guy or girl (Alice Terry, Greg Carter).

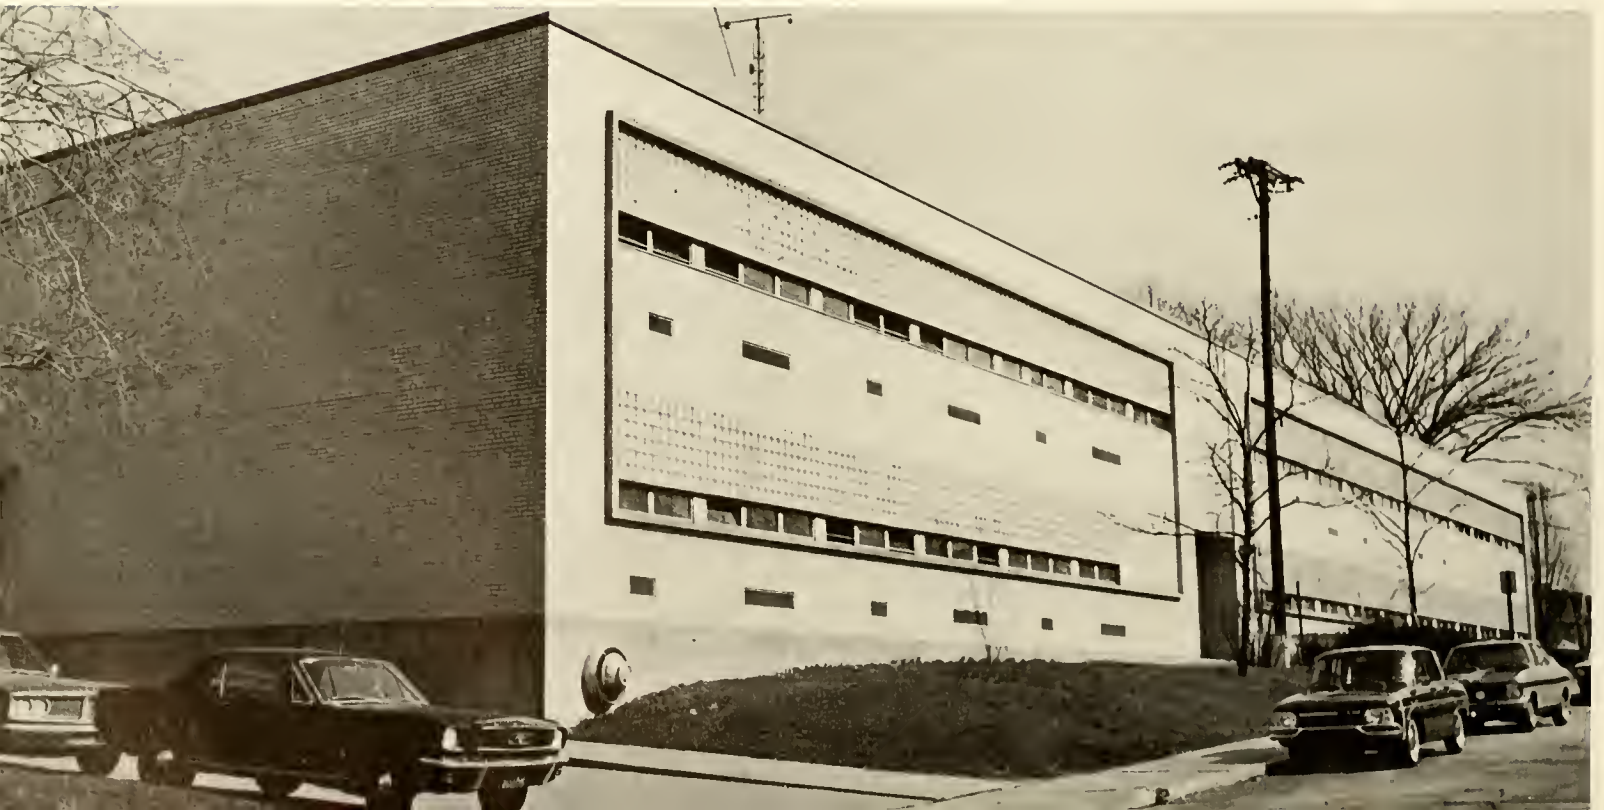

On Her 115th Birthday, NAHS

Originally located at First and Spring Streets in 1853, New Albany High School was the first public high school in Indiana. Built in 1928, the present Main Building, situated at 1020 Vincennes Street, was expanded to its present dimensions in 1942.

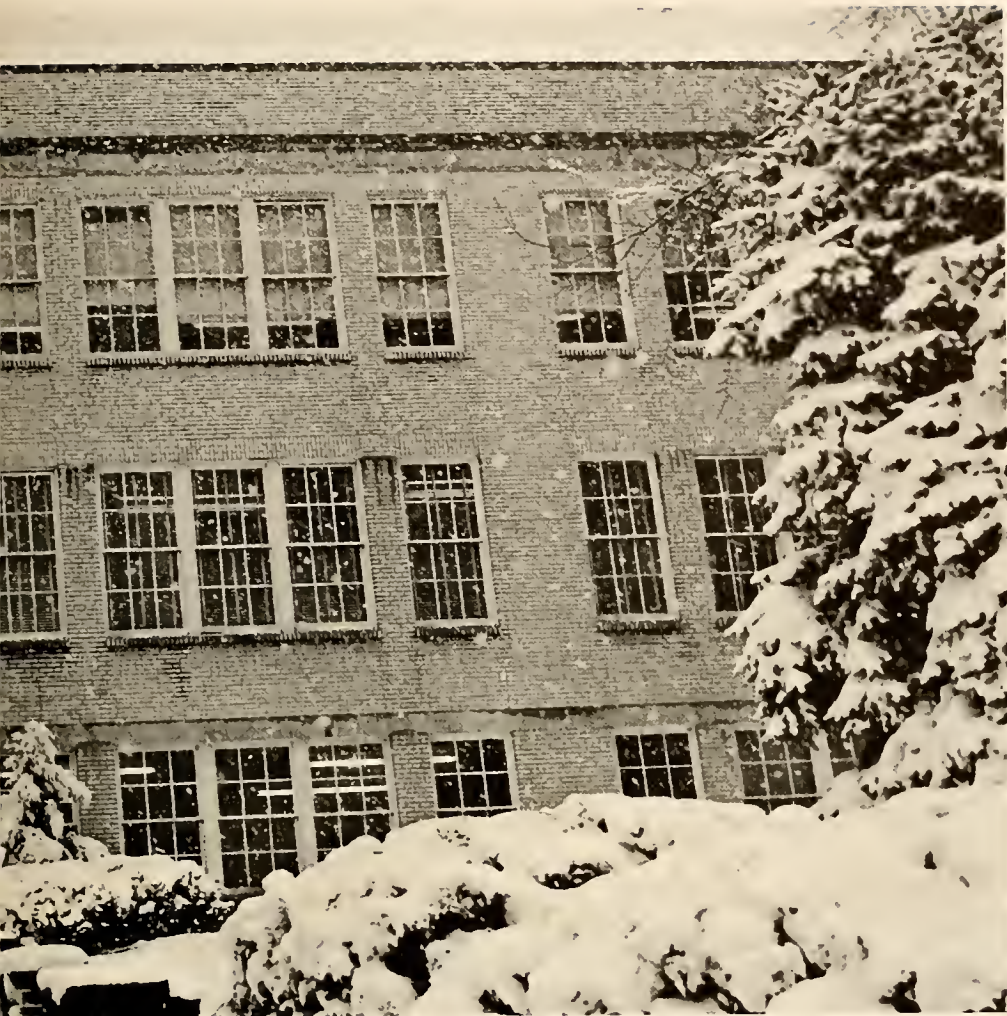

New Albany High School's newest addition is the Mechanical Arts Building, constructed in 1955. It harbors the vocational trade and the social studies classes.

Receives a Face-lift

Situated on Shelby Street beside the Annex, the Agricultural Building contains the facilities and equipment used by the horticulture students and FFA members.

A familiar alley leads to the oldest of NAHS's buildings, the Cora Martin Annex. This former grade school is the home of New Albany High School's foreign language rooms and classroom theatre.

Painters invaded the halls and rooms of New Albany High School during the summer and early fall. The face-lift revived the old buildings by removing the imprints of the previous years to welcome the new year of 1967-68.

With the help of horticulture classes and cooperative students, New Albany High's lawn was beautified. Students planted shrubs and sowed grass along the student-trampled walkways.

March found NAHS ready for the North Central inspection. Thirteen men permeated the premises March 15 to 21, examining teachers, students, curriculum, and buildings of New Albany High School.

Since NAHS is comprised of four buildings—the Mechanical Arts Building, the Agricultural Building, the Cora Martin Annex, and the Main Building—a long needed canopy was completed in early March over the Beeler Street entrance. Constructed of steel and fiberglass, this canopy protected students passing from building to building throughout the rainy spring months.

New Community Park Provides Fun,

Clad in white shirts and shorts, Wayne Martin and Pam Mayberry enter Chase Studio to get their senior pictures taken.

Before the picture is taken, Chris Brock, a part-time summer employee at Chase Studio, applies make-up to Pam.

Finally Pam poses for Mr. Chase and hopes her senior picture will be flattering.

A good game of touch football cures the Sunday afternoon blues for many seniors.

Summer is a time when most students feel free, sleep late, and go barefoot. New seniors have their senior portraits made and work, while most sophomores and some juniors just enjoy the leisure time.

Summer, for some, is synonymous with leisure and laziness. Swimming, golf, tennis, baseball, beach parties, picnics, and vacations filled some of the spare time for NAHS students. Many students attended school or held summer jobs such as sales clerks, lifeguards, park instructors, hospital workers, and gas station attendants.

A new park was added to the places to "buzz" in New Albany—The Community Park. With lake and tennis courts, the park provided a place for NAHS'ers to tan and relax before the reconvening of school in September.

Employment for NAHS Students

Distributing the 1967 Vista on August 4 to some of the 1200 purchasers are several staff members. Some pictures startle the boys as they flip through the book the first time.

While receiving a golden tan, lifeguard Bob Abell intently surveys the Community Park lake for possible accidents. Bob was a summer employee of the New Albany Department of Parks and Recreation.

Language Students Spend Summer

Attending Boys' and Girls' State were Steve Genet, Debbie McDaniel, Louis Garrison, Barbara Mason, Everett Wheeler, Mark Mullineau, Sue Hawkins, and John Paris

Researching, rewriting, and reciting are three skills used by debaters Susan Ludlow and Janet Love, who participated in Indiana University Debate and Theater Conference, July 10 to 15.

Traveling to France with the American Institute for Foreign Study were Joy Koshewa, Leslie Robinson, and Chery Forte, who studied at Strasbourg from June 24 to August 1.

Representing New Albany High School's branch of Alpha Tri-Hi-Y from July 23 to 29 at Lake Tecumseh in Delphi, Indiana, were Debbie Flora and Gwen Ashton.

Examining the A-rated 1967 Vista are Jan Mirelaz, Debbie Toler, Gail Ashton, and Nancy Brown, participants in the summer Journalism Institute held at Indiana University. Debbie and Nancy attended Newspaper Workshop from July 8 to 22; Jan and Gail, Yearbook Workshop from July 23 to August 5.

Peggy Dreschel, Everett Wheeler, and Susan Parrett reread parts of The Emergence of Rome, one of the five novels they studied while attending Classics Institute at I.U.

In Europe

Scattering far and wide to all regions of the world were 32 NAHS scholars. Their travels came as close to home as Bloomington, Indiana, where Indiana University was the site of nine summer institutes. Delphi, Indiana, was the place of one summer program, and five students traveled as far from home as Rome, Italy, and Paris, France.

Several institutes centered on public speaking and communication; for example, I.U. Debate and Theater Conference, Journalism Institute, I.U. School Broadcasting Institute and A.V. Workshop.

Four institutes provided information on leadership—Alpha Tri-Hi-Y camp, Student Council Institute, Boys' State and Girls' State.

Learning more about the fine arts were goals of the World Academy of Foreign Study, American Institute for Foreign Study, and the I.U. Music Clinic (vocal and instrumental).

Attending I.U. Music Clinic from July 23 to 29 were (seated) Hazel Bailey, vocal institute, and Sue Nance and Barbara Marlette, instrumental institute.

Studying art history, July 4 to August 12, with the World Academy of Foreign Study in Italy were Ginny Ehalt and Jill Applegate. Art instructor, Mrs. Comer Biggerstaff and her husband traveled with the girls as they studied and visited Europe.

(Above) Glen Prust, who attended A.V. Workshop, interviews David Taylor and David Lindley, participants in I.U. Broadcasting Institute, June 18 to 30. (Right) Rocky Stewart points out Guatemala, the future site of the NAHS financed school, to Joe Smith, Cynthia Best, and Dan Cannon. These officers attended the Student Council Workshop held at Indiana University from July 23 to July 29.

New Albany's "fiery" tennis team awaits a ride upon their return from the first State Tennis Tournament which they won on October 14. This title is the first state championship New Albany High School has gained in any sport. The winning team members are Glenn Mason, Ray Briscoe, Mike Best, Terry McCooe, Nagib Mussalli, Sam Peden, and Bill Ellis.

NA Sports Synonymous With Spirit

New Albany's Bulldog bandwagon started rolling in the fall with the state championship in tennis, the first championship in NAHS's 115 years.

Bulldog spirit reached its climax at sectional time. February found NAHS teams in the wrestling, swimming, and basketball sectionals, where Bulldog derbies were the identifying symbols for New Albany.

With a winning season, football was a successful pastime for sports-gearred students. With spring came track, baseball, and spectators full of spirit, ending a year of joyous victories and tormenting defeats.

Saudi Arabia, Indonesia Send Us

Hamburgers, unknown in Banjarmasin, Indonesia, were Hendrick Ibrahim's favorite thing about America.

This 19 year-old exchange student, supported by the Evangelical United Brethren Church, enjoyed basketball, volleyball, ping-pong, and soccer. Hendrick was a tenor in the NAHS Concert Choir, and reading was his favorite hobby.

Because most of the people in his country are Moslems, Hendrick thought the religious differences created the largest gap between Indonesia and the United States—plus the fact that Indonesia has no hamburgers.

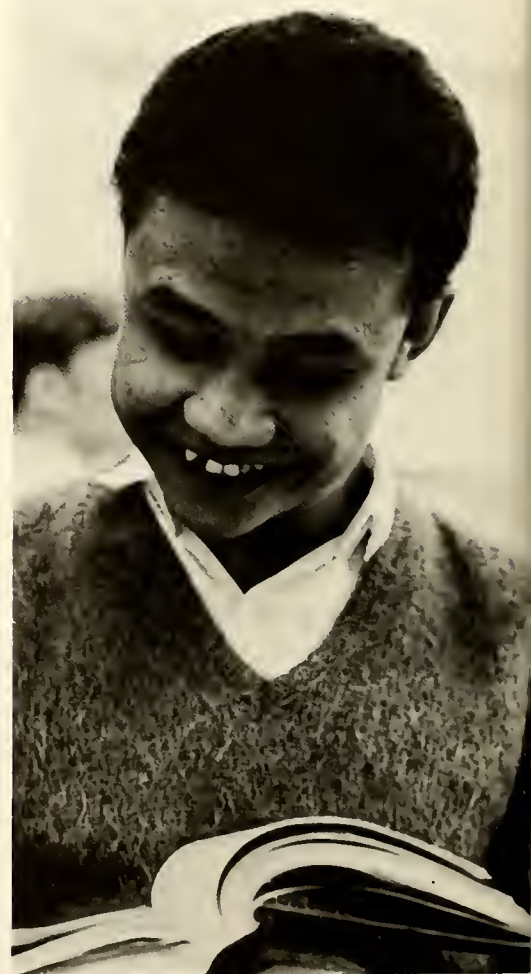

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kenney were his American parents, and he attended the EUB Church.

Anticipating his first Christmas present of a cheeseburger from Speakers' Santa Clans, Kathy Waters, Hendrick patiently waits his turn. Nazan Ozseezer precedes Hendrick as she receives her farewell gift.

New Albany Nagib and Hendrick

Nagib Mussalli models the NAHS jacket he wore while participating in Indiana's first state tournament.

New Albany High School took advantage of the United States' foreign trade policy and imported a modern "Lawrence of Arabia." Hot off the burning sands of Saudi Arabia, Nagib Mussalli, New Albany's 18 year-old foreign exchange student, studied in the U.S. as a member of the NAHS class of '68.

Nagib, "The American Playboy," as he is affectionately nicknamed, enjoys football and freedom as his two favorite facets of the American way of life. As a result of his father's position in the diplomatic corps of the Foreign Service, he enjoys traveling and has visited Egypt, Greece, Italy, France, England, and Germany.

Nagib was a member of the NAHS state championship tennis team and a semifinalist in the IHSAA tennis sectional. Nagib's American "parents" were Edward Johnson and his wife Mildred, who is New Albany's sophomore counselor.

Mr. Hall explains the intricate principles and interpretations of the United States'

Constitution to Nagib in an outside discussion during his government class.

Nagib, a Moslem, decorates his first Christmas tree in his American parents' home.

Nagib executes a backhand while practicing tennis, one of his favorite sports.

"Anything Goes" Revives 1920 Era

Mr. Spettigue (Gary Bilbro) flatly refuses to approve the marriage of his niece Amy Spettigue (Kathy Martin) to Charley

W'ykeham (David Black), who posed as his zany aunt from Brazil. "Where's Charley?" was presented May 10 and 11 in the NAHS auditorium to a constantly laughing audience.

Comprised of Chris Gray, Krista Amburgey, Alice Erni, Holly Staniford, Merrell Hansen, Theresa Ruoff, Kim Holmes, and

Jill Applegate, the junior triple trio presents its rendition of "Happy Talk" during the annual Bel Canto show.

Assemblies, professional and amateur, broke the "blahs" of many ordinary school days.

Ernest Kober Jr., Bohemian glass blower, opened the year with a demonstrative assembly for underclassmen. Seniors were entertained next by Dave Blake, who resembled Abe Lincoln. Other professionals were Mr. Eddie Matter, blind gymnast, and Mr. Charles King, who sang religious and humorous songs.

Students were the entertainment as well as the audience in many assemblies. Some assemblies involved Bel Canto, FTA, Alpha Tri-Hi-Y, and NAHS's orchestra.

Besides the welcome relief from homeroom, NAHS's night life was lightened by plays. Opening the 1968 school year was "Anything Goes," followed by the Christmas concert and miniature musical, "Sophocles the Hyena." The senior class play, "The Inspector General," was next, and closing the year was "Where's Charley," the hilarious spring musical.

Assemblies Star Pros, Students

Ordinary School Days

Carmel Leone hurriedly divulges news of the history test to an incoming classmate.

Sparking his otherwise complacent school day, Tom West observes a friendly fight between Donald Wolfe and Gary Young during one of the more active assemblies.

Glistened by the Unique

All hard feelings cleared up, Mike Wolfe apologizes to Dena Shea, as they have a final chat before reporting to their classes after spending lunch together.

Decked out in his hillbilly best, Steve Gray chews on a piece of straw while sizing up the city slickers at the Sadie Hawkins fling held on May 25.

Queen Maggie Kerr Reigns Over

Escorting the 1967-68 Homecoming candidates on November 4 were blustery winds and biting temperatures.

Halftime ceremonies included a nine-float parade and the crowning of this year's Homecoming Queen, Maggie Kerr, by co-captains Terry Hunt and Mike Pierce. Floats sponsored by Speakers and Senior Executive Committee won first and second places respectively.

After the New Albany Bulldogs trounced Columbus 28-0, a second coronation added to the Homecoming Dance, "Fleeting Fall". The Hazelwood gym, the scene for the dance, was adorned in autumn and winter hues. Hundreds of NAHS students and alumni danced to the music of the Mersey-Beats.

With Queen Maggie Kerr was her court, which consisted of Gail Ashton, Chris Brock, Sharon Hall, Donna Harris, and Ann Streepey, escorted by Bill Barrett, Tom Zipp, Fred Grauel, Dutch Vigar, Larry Ricke, and Bob Hubbuch.

"Ship Columbus Back" says the FTA-sponsored float. Paula Jamison, harrassed by NA's bulldog, portrays the explorer and represents NAHS's homecoming foe.

During halftime of the Homecoming game against the Columbus Bulldogs, Speakers display their first place float which proclaims, "Our Dogs Are Better Than Yours."

The parade, a new addition to the ceremonies this year, included nine floats.

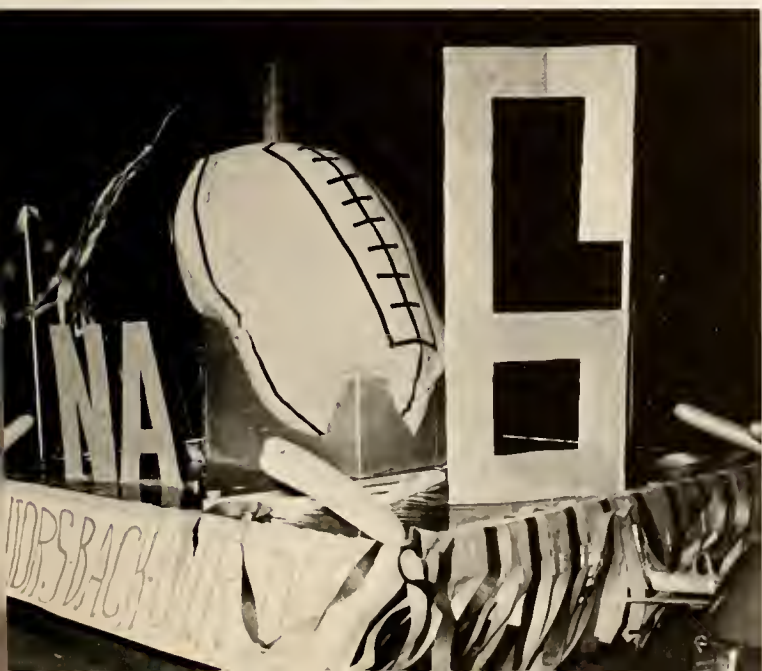

"Fleeting Fall"

As her escort, Bob Hubbuch, calmly gazes on, co-captains Terry Hunt and Mike Pierce place a kiss on the 1967-68 Homecoming Queen Maggie Kerr.

Poised proudly on the Senior Executive Committee's second place float is a seemingly educated football of the class of 1968.

Smiling happily during halftime ceremonies are Sharon Hall and Donna Harris, two of the homecoming queen candidates. Jim Slider is the driver of the car.

Homecoming queen candidates Chris Brock and Gail Ashton coldly await passing before the spectators during halftime. Jim Miller drives one of the three cars provided by New Albany auto dealers.

Perched on the back seat of car are homecoming queen candidates Maggie Kerr and Ann Streepey, driven by G. L. Russell.

Moderator of the 1968 College Bowl, David Black, directs a bonus question to the Wrangler panel comprised of John Paris, Terry McCooe, Everett Wheeler, and Bill Barrett, while Gail Shannon, Dee Miller, Denise Young, and Janet Hiller of the French Club listen intently.

Wranglers Capture Debate Title

Achieving one's goal is an important part of NAHS life. It is a happy and proud time when one reaches his goal.

Recapturing the Speaker-Wrangler Debate trophy became a reality on April 17 when Wranglers John Paris, Rocky Stewart, and Dave Black defeated Speaker debaters Kathy Waters, Susan Ludlow, and Carol Bertrand. Surmounting a challenging task, John Paris won the Wrangler Cup Contest by superior oration, "The Times, They Are a-Changing."

After four years of play on the NAHS tennis team, veteran Ray Briscoe captured the state tennis championship on October 14. He was made a Kentucky Colonel by the Honorable Order, and Sports Illustrated recognized his achievement with an award.

Mike Pierce, another NAHS sports star, received a full football scholarship from Indiana University, a 1968

Rose Bowl contender.

Well constructed campaigns became one of the common means to achieve a specific goal as the Student Council reached a $1000 goal for the Peace Corps Project, and G. L. Russell grabbed the 1967-68 state DECA presidency after a day's solicitation of votes in Indianapolis.

Academic accomplishments were numerable, too, as Kathy Erickson and John Paris were successful in attaining the National Merit finals. Marilu Uland was named one of the top writers in Indiana by the National Council of Teachers of English, while another writer, Carol Breeden, had her poem published in a national magazine, Youth. Many clubs throughout the area recognized students, particularly Rotary, who gave a banquet for the top ten per cent of the graduating class.

Paris, Erickson Achieve Finals

April Is Month for New Dances —

Crowned in jonquils, NAHS's first Miss Vista, senior Linda Lobeide, dreamily dances with her escort Steve Gray.

Discovering that perfect date at the Student Council sponsored computer dance produced many assorted smiles and frowns.

Computer, Spring 'n Other Things

Everything is figured by computers today, even dance partners! The first computer dance at NAHS was a shocking, wonderful, hilarious, terrifying, exciting, or terrible event depending on the computerized mates, but unique was the best adjective for the dance. Students filled out questionnaires two weeks before the dance, answers corresponding to a computer number. Tagged to students, these numbers were the keys to "partner-finding," a popular sport April 6 in the Scribner gym. Matched students danced, or listened if dissatisfied with mates, to the music of the Alphabetical Order.

Another new and hoped-to-be-annual dance this year was the Vista dance. First postponed because of snow, "Spring 'n Other Things" was held April 11 in the Hazelwood gym. With this dance came a new queen, Linda Loheide, the 1968 Miss Vista, who was chosen from a nine-girl lineup. Promoted by announcements, posters, and an assembly on March 22, the dance featured the Carnations and Tren-Dells.

Prom Queen Debbie Glaze Rules

"Heave," exclaims Gayle Leist as she and D. J. Hines pull the grass into place. Members of the Junior Executive Committee gave the Convention Center an Hawaiian look the afternoon of May 6 for their Junior and Senior guests.

"Isle of Enchantment"

Thoughts of a pounding surf, a dreamy moon, and an Hawaiian atmosphere beckoned some 250 couples to attend the annual Junior-Senior Prom, "The Isle of Enchantment." Organized by the Junior Executive Committee, the 1968 prom was held on May 6 at the Louisville Convention Center. After entering the semi-formal affair via a grass hut, couples danced to the music of Gary and Sherry Edwards and the Embers.

Composing the prom queen's court for this year were Debbie Glaze, Joy Koshewa, Linda Loheide, Sandy Scharlow, and Brenda Sullivan. Based on votes submitted by each boy attending, Debbie Glaze was crowned the 1968 prom queen.

The dance ended at midnight, but the night was hardly over for many, as various parties and breakfasts followed. Picnics carried prom festivities over to the next afternoon when couples ventured as far as Clifty Falls, Spring Mill, and Cave River Valley to eat and to explore, but mainly to have a happy time.

(Below) Winding their way through the hut and into the exhilaration that only a first prom can bring are juniors Margaret Schultz and Steve Mullins.

Queen Debbie Glaze joyfully awaits for her escort to claim her for leading off the Grand March at the 1968 prom.

Class Day Ceremonies

Moving geometric patterns of sparkling whites and somber greys were sparked with yellow, green, and blue as a moving human wave of 579 seniors made its way to Class Day exercises.

Class of '68 sang "Somewhere, My Love" and "Try To Remember" with words adapted for the occasion. To liven the exercises, the Lukewarm Ragtime Seven—Tony Arnold, Gary Bilbro, Dennis Davis, Joe Kelley, Mark Mullineaux, Greg Saunders, and Dave Taylor—performed a jazz medley entitled "Dixieland Jamboree." The Senior Vocal Ensemble sang "More," another musical specialty.

Local awards and college scholarship presentations were delivered by Mr. Delbert A. Brown, principal, and Mr. Marvin Oakes, assistant principal.

Ginny Ehalt, class treasurer, presented the class gift. The Senior Executive Committee voted to leave the class' $500 to a general fund for the auditorium.

Head '68 Class as Valedictorians

"Pomp and Circumstance" and 577 graduating seniors led the baccalaureate and commencement exercises, June 2 and 7, 1968. Preceding the baccalaureate address by the Reverend Ralph H. Saunders of Central Christian Church, the Reverend Wilson Waters Jr. from Advent Christian Church presented the invocation. Musical specials by the Concert Choir included "Anthem for Spring" and "These Things Shall Be."

After a welcome from class president Louis Garrison and special numbers by the NAHS Concert Choir and Concert Band, Dr. Merle T. Strom, professor of education from Ball State University, delivered the commencement address.

Superintendent of schools Mr. Glen Barkes then honored each senior with his diploma, following a presentation of the class by Principal Delbert A. Brown.

Traditionally a senior valedictorian, Gayle Wheat, passed the Mantle of Knowledge to Kathy Martin, a junior valedictorian.

HAPPINESS IS receiving Scholarship N for the first or sixth time . . . knowing the answers to the teacher's questions . . . earning an A on a final exam . . . seeing a film instead of having a lecture . . . finishing a slaved-over term paper . . . finding more than one person failed the pop quiz . . . realizing the solution to that insoluble trig problem . . . being measured for caps and gowns . . . hearing the ring of the 2:55 bell. This is happiness at New Albany High School.

Higgins, vice president; Mr. James Lewis Sr.; Mrs. Ferd Wrege, secretary; and Mr. Richard C. O'Connor.

Mr. James Lewis Sr. joined the ranks of the New Albany-Floyd County School Corporation school board at the start of this year.

Confronting those at the head of the educational helm were consideration of plans for the new Vocational Center on Charlestown Road, the opening of Floyd Central High School, and re-evaluation of New Albany High School by a North Central Association Committee. The latter event occurs only once every seven years, and NAHS students and faculty alike felt its impact from September through March.

Nearly every day found teachers scurrying off to special committees or securing information necessary to complete the self-evaluation which preceded the actual visit by the evaluation team. Work it was, but teachers unanimously agreed upon the beneficial effects that such a long look at oneself provides.

Signifies Variety and Specialty

Earnestly making a point to his English 7 students, is Mr. Richardson during an intriguing discussion of Dostoevski's widely read novel, Crime and Punishment.

Taking informal shots is an important part of yearbook photography. Journalism student, Paul Elmer, snaps Hazel Bailey and Jim Steinert.

What is English at NAHS? To the sophomore, English is something more than daily lessons of grammar and literature. It is seeing classroom theatre performances and attending reading laboratory and vocabulary workshops. It is developing public speaking skills and writing for the "Red and Black" page of the New Albany Tribune. For the interested sophomore it is attending special yearbook workshops during homeroom.

To the junior, English is primarily composition and literature. It is a course which specializes in detailed study of creative writing. It is a re-introduction to classroom theatre and play production courses.

To the senior, English is the experience of working on our own school radio station, WNAS. It is after school and competitive debate sessions and the furthering of job opportunities with added business English courses.

All this is what English is at NAHS.

Under the guidance of speech teacher Mr. Hand, Jerry Morrison delivers his talk.

I.U. Orthodox Church Attended

First year Russian student Glendon Miller gives his full attention to his textbook.

This is only the second year for Russian to be included in the curriculum.

A weekend excursion to the Indiana University campus highlighted the year for New Albany's thirteen initial Russian students. The students viewed films which furthered their knowledge of Russian culture and visited a Russian Orthodox Church near the campus. In this second year that Russian was offered at NAHS, students learned the Cyrillic alphabet and took tests in oral dictation. New Albany taught Russian at a pace which is 9/16 of that taught on the college level. The text in use at I.U. is the same used by New Albany students.

French, Spanish, and German students gained fluency of speech through oral dialogs. Elizabeth Corrales, a Spanish senorita from Peru, spoke to Spanish students in her native tongue. The 4-H program sponsored Elizabeth's trip to the United States. She told about her home in South America and the difference between her country and the United States.

Beginning Latin students struggled through the conjugation of verbs and the declension of nouns. Advanced students translated the adventures and letters of Cicero and Virgil.

'Factor Label' Used in Chemistry

"Factor Label" was the word constantly heard around Jack Smith's chemistry class in 1968. The factor label, used in chemistry courses at Indiana University, is a new process of solving equations.

While chemistry students struggled to understand factor label and mathematics students settled into their routine work with numerics, physics students were concentrating on the ways and waves of light.

General biology classes dissected and studied the fetal pig. Advanced biologists devoted intensive and thorough study to the growth and development of the plant.

Enliven NAHS Social Studies

Simulated murder trials, mock legislatures, fake legislative bills—all gave this year's government students a keener insight into the mechanism of American government.

Miss Braeutigam's History 5 class found itself dually involved in creativity and America's heritage. For special projects first semester pupils of Miss Braeutigam submitted everything from political cartoons to sonnets. Henry Clay lived again when immortalized in a limerick!

Economics classes increased their contemporary understanding of the world economy via independent reading from a list of selected titles. Counting for two books was John Galbraith's weighty The New Industrial State.

No longer new, but still vibrant, is history by television at NAHS, coordinated this year by Mr. Becker.

Briefly pausing between government classes, Coach McCaffry glances over his clipboard of sports activities scheduled for the coming weekend.

Snickering psychology students, Marilu Uland, Ruth Schroeder, Susan Parrett,

Trimnings for Culbertson Mansion

Orchestra director, Mr. Sher, pauses a few minutes in class to explain a difficult passage of music to students, Carol Allen and Janice Kron. The orchestra is rehearsing selections for the Christmas Concert which was presented by Student Theatre, Bel Canto Intermediate and Concert Choirs.

Following the tradition of extending its learning experience beyond the halls of its own buildings, NAHS this year delegated art students to decorate Culbertson Mansion, New Albany's proudest historic landmark, for the holiday season. Theme for this year's school decorations was "Partridge in a Pear Tree". Advanced art students again illustrated the writing of Key Magazine with linoleum and wood cuts.

NAHS's choirs and orchestra complemented each other frequently throughout the year with joint performances for both students and the public. Their combined talents this year helped to produce "Anything Goes" and the Thanksgiving program, which was broadcast over WNAS. They received a standing ovation on the concluding night of this year's Christmas concert.

The 1968 Marching Band not only played during football halftimes but also worked out new and special marching formations to add to the entertainment.

New Albany High's Front Lawn

Horticulture, a novel course presented at NAHS in 1967, correlates green-thumb students with nature. The major project undertaken by horticulture students was the improvement of the school lawn. Also, the department presented a poinsettia plant grown in the NAHS greenhouse, to each female of the faculty at Christmas.

The Home Economics department proved that "a stitch in time saves five", as avid Bulldog backers saved our team from technical foul trouble by blocking in the numerals on the basketball uniforms.

Modern machinery holds the key to advanced, on-the-spot training. The addition of a Blue Ray Printer-Developer in Drafting classes and a valve grinder in Auto Mechanics acquainted pupils with the actual materials used in these fields.

Strengthen Business Depth in '68

Innovation and multiplicity of modern equipment characterize the Business Department of NAHS for 1968. The business curriculum increased with the addition of second year bookkeeping and Intensified Office Practice. Bookkeeping 3 and 4 strengthen and specialize the beginning concepts, in addition to introducing principles of accounting.

Springboard to becoming "gal Fridays" is Intensified Office Practice. Designed to occupy a two or three-hour block of time, IOP equips its pupils in all phases of secretarial skills. Facilitating the teaching of Office Machines this year was the purchase of four new calculators—Olivetti, Monroe, Friden, and Marchant; a Monroe posting machine; an Edison Voicewriter; a Stenocord; and a Stenotette.

Another change in the business department is in the name of Mr. Carroll's program. Formerly labeled Distributive Co-operative Education, this course is now tagged Co-operative Office Education.

Just added this year at New Albany High School is Bookkeeping 3 and 4. It is an advanced course planned to convey the details in departmental accounting.

Besides being entertaining, Brenda Rector, Cindy Obremski, Nancy Pennington, and Jackie Adams provide a definite beat for student typists to work by.

Dual Purpose Tumbling Mats Are

This year tumbling took the lead with new blue mats cushioning the girls in more ways than one. The mats served two purposes, one during regular gym class, and the other after school for girls taking gymnastics.

Physical education at New Albany is fun, as well as profitable. The class offers girls and boys a chance to keep themselves physically fit and learn the basic fundamentals of games. Volleyball, table tennis, and softball get the year off to a bouncing start.

All sophomores must participate in one semester of safety and one semester of first aid. The Red Cross First Aid method was featured in the girls' first aid training this year. The proper application of bandages and the appearance of guest speaker, Charles Rodman, highlighted the activities for this department, while the safety classes studied the rudiments of automobile safety.

HAPPINESS IS entertaining fellow students . . . helping the needy with an Easter basket of fruit . . . presenting a play for the last of a three-night performance . . . attending a pep session to boost the Bulldogs to victory . . . capturing a king in the championship chess game . . . reigning as queen and wearing the crown . . . washing cars to make money for a dance . . . working at a bake sale and sampling the merchandise . . . finishing the homecoming float before 6 p.m. . . . receiving a standing ovation on the closing night. This is happiness at New Albany High School.

Student Council devoted their whole-hearted efforts in 1968 to making the Peace Corps project a success. The entire NAHS student body contributed to finance the construction of a school for the uneducated children of Guatemala. Their goal of $1,000 was easily reached within the two-week collection period.

Football homecoming was a more lively event this year due to the Student Council. The council re-instituted the float parade and presented awards to clubs sponsoring the best floats.

The council continued to promote cooperation and interaction between the administration and students.

The council sponsored a productive array of activities such as the student tutor program; the first publication of a council newspaper; a student exchange program with Clarksville, Jeffersonville, and Province; and a schedule for semester exams.

Scholarship N is an organization which recognizes students with high scholastic achievements. Each semester a ceremony is held in the high school auditorium honoring these outstanding students. Students are awarded a Scholarship N if they have received four A's in solid subjects and no grade lower than a B in any other subject. Scholarship pins are presented to the student who qualifies for Scholarship N four semesters. Seniors who qualify for a fifth or sixth semester receive a certificate with gold bars showing the total number of semesters they have earned the Scholarship N. Scholarship N is sponsored by Student Council, who provides the insignias.

One of the most important activities of the school year is the election of new members into the National Honor Society. To be eligible students must rank in the upper quarter of their class. The faculty then selects 10 per cent of the students of the junior class and 5 per cent of the senior class on the basis of scholarship, leadership, service, and character. May 1 during homeroom was the fifteenth annual initiation in the high school auditorium. The second-year students organized the program and presented to the new members a certificate, membership card, and pin. The purpose in honoring these new members is to promote and encourage higher ideals among the students of New Albany High School.

Mr. Albert Gehlbach, supervisor of the high school print shop, hands co-editor and a Quill & Scroll member Marilu Uland the first Key magazine as Mrs. Pat Lindemann, Key advisor, observes.

As head of the American Institute of Public Opinion, Dr. George Gallup has correctly predicted hundreds of outcomes involving controversial, political warfare. His most perfectly valued supposition, however, did not involve politics but journalism. As founder of Quill and Scroll, an international honorary society for journalists. Gallup prophesied success and growth for the society since its beginning in 1926.

Proof of this success is evidenced in NAHS's local chapter, which expanded its total membership to 164 with the addition of 16 initiates. Sponsored by Miss Gail Rietze, the budding journalists held an initiation and awards banquet at Yandell's, Clarks-ville, on March 18.

Debaters Capture 78% of Debates

Debaters Connie Richter, Jackie Queen, John Paris, David Black, Rocky Stewart, and Ron Hutchens canvass pros and cons

at the law library of Orbison, Rudy, & O'Connor, where they research their current resolution.

Resolved: That Congress should establish uniform regulations governing criminal investigation. The topic of debate is a familiar one to the NAHS varsity and novice debate teams. The team numbers 56 members and is under the direction of Larry Hand.

Eligibility for membership in the club is trying out and acceptance is left up to the coach's decision. After a student is accepted, he participates in interscholastic debate and is taught the process of the important principles of speech, reasoning, and logic.

Mr. Hand has been the sponsor of the club for four years, and since then the team has participated in 1,390 debates—winning 1,075 of them and losing 315.

Since the team participates in so many different debates, traveling they do during one year reaches an average of 15,000 miles. The team is now operating under a budget supplied by the school board and matching funds from the high school. The club also held a school assembly to raise funds for the team. Another activity, besides the 36 listed debate tournaments was that the team supplied the freshman class of Hazelwood Junior High School with a demonstration debate.

Eighty volumes of history in word and pictures crown the VISTA story for 1968. Word of high ratings from both national judging services on the 1967 book reached NAHS in November. The 1967 VISTA received a grade of A from National Scholastic Yearbook Association and a first-class honor rating from National Scholastic Press Association.

October 7 saw the entire staff and sophomore apprentices travelling to Indiana University for a yearbook seminar. They were guests of Taylor Publishing Co. and its representative Rex Moonshower.

Preceding the Jeffersonville football game on October 27 was a VISTA-sponsored bonfire and pep rally. Approximately 1000 Bulldog fans turned out at Community Park to shiver and cheer for the Dogs. Next day found co-editors Gail Ashton and Jan Mivelaz at Franklin College for the autumn meeting of the Indiana High School Press Association.

Miss Rietze's car became a rainbow of colored spherules at VISTA staff members festooned it with balloons for their entry in the annual homecoming parade on November 4.

Attending a photographic journalism class at The Courier Journal was senior photographer Charles Lingenfelter.

Climax of the March sales campaign was the VISTA dance at which ticket holders cast their votes for Miss VISTA, NAHS's newest title, created this year and won by senior Linda Loheide.

Most Valuable Staffer

Striving to give better news coverage over a two-week period, the Blotter is now a bi-weekly publication. Nine staff members and editors, Debbie Toler and Joy Koshewa, put out 14 issues for the 1967-68 school year.

Aside from the changing composition of the Blotter from cartoons and small talk, the paper tried to reach a higher intellectual standard through editorials and news events. Topics for editorials this year ranged from drug usage to the Vietnam war.

The Blotter received a second-place honor rating from the NSPA (National Scholastic Press Association) for the 1967-68 school year.

Market Dances – Investors Quiver

Closing price, 38; net change, 2 ... Investor Bill Gilbert scrutinizes the current prices on the New York Stock Exchange.

Memories of Wall Street of 1929 lingered within the minds of members of the 1968 Investors Club. Designed to study and invest in the business world, this organization struggled through its seventh year of operation. Buying stock from the American and New York exchange through the Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner, and Smith brokerage firm, the NAHS investors bravely held shares of Computer Applications, Dymo Industries, and Siboney Corporation while they witnessed a steady decline of stock prices.

The club gained a deeper understanding of comparative economies by hearing talks by foreign exchange students, Nagib Mussalli and Hendrick Ibrahim; Mr. Ed Eve, a consultant of Dreyfus Funds Incorporated; and Mr. James Dickman, who lectured on Russia.

Highlight of the 67-68 year was a visit to the brokerage firm to inspect and learn about the stock exchange board.

Since the initial issue of Key appeared in 1964, no year's issues have been without the works of a prize-winning author or artist. 1968 was no exception. Pages of Key unfolded to disclose prose of Marilu Uland, selected as one of 22 outstanding high school writers, by the National Council of Teachers of English.

Poetry pranced on Key's pages in the form of the swift, compact poems of Carol Breedon. Youth, national magazine of the United Church of Christ, chose Carol as double winner in poetry this year.

Ronnie Underwood, whose linoleum blocks helped illustrate Key, was first-prize-winner in the annual Halloween window-painting contest.

This year saw Key dually sponsored for the first time with Mrs. Lindemann and Mr. Wardell sharing the advisor's seat. This was also the first year for a two-column layout, as well as the first time there has been specific staff organization.

Newly organized this year, the Vista Apprentices consisted of sophomores who were interested in Vista production and in future yearbook participation.

Vista Apprentices sponsor, Mrs. Patricia Lindemann instructed the members in basic yearbook layout, copy writing, and picture cropping. Besides studying past NAHS books and yearbooks from other schools, each member also helped in selling the 1968 Vista during the subscription campaign.

Key's co-editor, Marilu Uland polishes "Impromptu" which was published in Twenty-two Young Indiana Writers, NCTE's 1967 achievement awards for writing.

Speakers' Santa "Sends" Seniors

A 20th century Rudolph complete with a "tenna-topped" nose is Ann Streepey suggesting a dental product for jovial Santa, portrayed by Kathy Waters in Speakers' Christmas program. Enjoying the ludicrous portrayal is Cynthia Best.

After presenting an original satire on "Twas the Night Before Christmas," the Speakers' own Santa gave presents to certain seniors during the remainder of the annual Speaker Christmas program. Speakers, the oldest girls' club at New Albany, also gave toys and food to a needy family during the holiday season.

Speakers combined their efforts with Wranglers in sponsoring the Speaker-Wrangler Dance, held on January 25 at Valley View Club house; and a banquet, the farewell project sponsored before graduation.

Promoting school spirit within the school, Speakers also sponsored a pep session before the first basketball game which featured poems about the team members. The Easter play was another project held, recognizing this religious event.

Consisting of 35 girls, maintaining "B" averages in English, the Speakers Club main objectives are to promote oral expression; to further good fellowship in NAHS; and to enrich school and community life through thoughtful service and high ideals.

Wranglers Down French in Bowl

Organized in 1910, the Wranglers Club is the oldest continuous organization at NAHS. Membership is select: one must be recommended by an English or social studies teacher, present at least a 2.5 cumulative, and deliver a qualifying speech before the club and its judges.

Steering the group of boys through 1967-68 was Mr. John Richardson, English teacher. Under his tutelage the club presented the Wrangler pep session before the sectional, participated in the annual Speaker-Wrangler Cup Contest (a school-wide speech competition), proffered a semi-formal dance with Speakers, and climaxed its year with a picnic held at Cave River Valley.

Getting to be a yearly happening is the Wrangler backed "College Bowl," held on May 15 during homeroom with the '68 finalists being members of French Club and another team comprised of Wranglers themselves. The winners were Wranglers represented on their team by John Paris, Terry McCooe, Everett Wheeler, and Bill Barrett.

Bel Canto Recognizes Rodgers and Hammerstein

"Anything Goes" when Bel Canto members blend their 40 voices with Student Theatre to enact the 1967 fall musical. Strains of "Sing Noel" and other spirited Christmas carols permeated the walls of NAHS as the angelic sopranos and altos paraded through the halls. The club, sponsored by Mr. Carter, opened the 1967 Christmas Concert with their candlelights. Their annual spring show afforded the NAHS populace with selections from Rodgers' and Hammerstein's musicals to end the year on a bright note.

Minstrels "Swing to Spiritual"

"Swinging the Spiritual" was the motto of the Boys' Glee Club for the 1967-68 school year. During Christmas, the club sang carols for hospital patients and other shut-ins. The boys also entertained downtown shoppers with their music at various times throughout the year. Held during mid-winter was a swimming party at the Hazelwood Pool.

Faculty sponsor Mr. Robert Carter, an enthusiastic singer himself, used the club period to instruct the members in the fine art of vocalization.

Activities of the Science Club of America centered on guest speakers this year; bacteriologists, geneticists, and bio-chemists informed the junior scientists of opportunities open in the vast diversified scientific fields.

Trips to the Floyd Central High School planetarium added to the members' knowledge of astronomy, while fossils were the object of expeditions to the historic Falls of the Ohio. The club, co-sponsored by Mr. Phillip Stewart and Mr. Gary Austin, aimed at giving its members a better understanding of the physical and chemical world.

On the opposite side of the ledger was the NAHS Bible Club under the direction of Mrs. Laura Mellon. The theological and spiritual facets of human life underwent investigation by this organization which conducted an in-depth study of the Bible from Genesis to Revelations. Members discussed and concentrated on the relationships between God and man and his world from both traditional and contemporary viewpoints.

Bishops, Pawns Confound Players

Avoid a stalemate and become the champ. This was the goal of each member of the Chess Club. In its third year at New Albany, the Chess Club numbered 70 members. The club participated in the Louisville Chess League and competed against players from Clarksville and Charlestown. Members also played against each other during the club on Tuesday and Thursday.

The club produced several masters during the chess tourney held at New Albany in March and April. Members of the Tuesday and Thursday periods battled to come up with one participant who would best represent their section. The winners from the club periods met in the finals on April 3. Trophies were presented to Bob VanLare, winner of the tourney, and to Ralph Dietrich, runner-up.

The New Albany High School Marching Band, composed of 137 active members, was directed by Mr. Ovid Chambers and Mr. Larry Kinzer.

Going to state band contest for its first time, the symphonic band received a superior rating.

The entire marching band played for pep sessions, basketball and football games, community dedications or parades, and performed concerts. The highlight of the marching season was marching in the Derby parade and at I.U. band day.

New Albany High School's Art Club opens its membership to those 43 students having an A or B average in art. Because this group is so large, the club has divided its members into two smaller groups: Tuesday Club, having 21 members and Thursday Club, having 22 members.

Purposes are to give service to the school by decorating for holidays and to provide a means for fellowship among interested artists.

Many projects filled the Art Clubs' calendars year-round, keeping their members busy. Attractive Christmas decorations brightened the corridors of the annex, main, and mechanical arts buildings throughout the month of December. These clubs also provided Christmas decorations for the Culbertson Mansion.

The Pleiades dance, with a moon-like atmosphere, spotlighted the crowning of the 1968 NAHS basketball queen. This Martian hop featured the Bushmen, who played for their third time at the Art Clubs' dance.

Topping the Art Clubs' schedule was the spring picnic at Brown County State Park.

Musicians Examine Music Styles

"Music tames the savage beast and sets the soul at ease." Evidently, this was what the Music Appreciation Club had in mind. Mr. David Groshneider left the choice of music up to his club members and each had a chance to bring the type of music he enjoyed. The fourteen members of this year's club spent their Thursdays learning to appreciate the many different types of music which filled their room with sound and fun.

Another musical club, which was created to develop a taste for jazz and swing music, was the Dance Band. Mr. Ovid Chambers and his swinging band lent their sound this year to several programs, including the FTA Variety Show and the Vista assembly.

TV, Radio-men Absorb Stations

Communications Arts Club, formerly known as the Projector-Radio Operators Club, is "the" club for NAHS boys who have a keen interest in the field of electronic communications. The purpose of the club is to better acquaint, train, and educate the boys in using the latest communication devices.

This year under the supervision of Mr. Jerry Weaver, faculty sponsor, and Tom Sappenfield, club president, the members took several field trips to various television and radio broadcasting stations throughout the area. Eighteen of 21 members travelled to WFPK's broadcasting center, WAVE's radio and television broadcasting center, and WLKY, where program director, Wilson Hatcher, conducted the group on a guided tour of the station.

Complexities of radio transmission are the topic of conversation for Tony Phillips, Glenn Prust, Terry Schindler, and Tom Sappenfield as they meet by WNAS radio tower atop the main stream.

The coveted distinction of obtaining a first, second, or third class F.C.C. radio license is the goal of the future engineers and disc jockeys of WNAS Packets to Power Corps, the members of the Amateur Radio Club. Working cooperatively, the members utilized the club period by studying various areas of communications and planning and developing communication projects for membership usage. Membership in the club is limited to those electronics students who demonstrate desire to achieve licensed status in the field of communications.

The club, under the advisory guidance of David Cooper, constructed a ham radio station specifically designed to provide members with an opportunity to contact and learn more about other stations around the world. The climax of their efforts this year came when the club attended the Ham 9 Fest where Amateur Radio operators gathered to discuss their "rigs". Other highlights of the year included field trips to the WAVE television studios in Louisville and the RCA complex in Bloomington.

Carry Home "Firsts" From State

For over 100 years, choral music has been presented at New Albany High School in the form of Concert Choir.

With an enrollment of 75, Concert Choir provided enjoyable music programs to audiences in this locality. In November the choir presented a concert during Open House and a double assembly for students at Thanksgiving. On December 7 and 8, the group performed their annual Christmas Concert. Special selections were made for Baccalaureate and for Commencement exercises.

The purpose of this organization is to give talented students a chance to sing for the joy of singing, to improve vocal habits, and to demonstrate their artistic ability through public appearances.

Broadcasting from the nation's first low-powered FM radio station in a public school, 28 New Albany seniors experienced another banner year for WNAS, as they celebrated the station's 19th anniversary.

In addition to regular community service broadcasts and educational programming, WNAS featured comprehensive coverage of important national, state, and local elections of 1967. The Packet to Power Corps also aired the ISTA Conference and press conferences of Indiana Congressman Roger Zion. Using the station's versatile mobile communications unit in its first full year of service, WNAS continued as the top spot for Bulldog sports and deserving of the title "Community Companion."

As a result of broadcasting, WNAS was featured in a television special on WAVE-TV in Louisville.

Harp Adds Celestial Distinction

Fred Muller, guest conductor at the annual spring concert presented by the NAHS String Orchestra, directed a piece of music of his own composition.

An angelic instrument was a new addition to the New Albany High School String Orchestra. This year Janet Hiller became the very first harpist to play in NAHS's orchestra.

Under the baton of Mr. Rubin Sher, the group played at special affairs such as the Indiana Teachers Association, and performed for clubs and organizations that wished music or a short program. Peaks of the orchestra's crescendo of activity were the annual Christmas and Spring Concerts.

A standing ovation greeted the musicians at the Christmas Concert on December 10 and 11 with the combined choirs.

(Below right) Future Business Leaders also entertain as they make their rounds singing Christmas carols to families.

More than doubling last year's membership of 15 to 37 this year, Future Business Leaders of America participated in such community service projects as giving Thanksgiving and Christmas gifts to needy families, and typing envelopes for service organizations.

Poise, correct dress, posture, business and social techniques, and analysis of job opportunities supplemented academic preparation for a career in business.

Mrs. Ryall, the club's advisor, traveled with FBLA'ers to business firms to observe the total picture of that firm in community life. Other club activities included talks by business leaders on the specific requirements for jobs, participation in the Spelling and Arithmetic Testing Program in the Louisville metropolitan area, and the Junior Officer Technical Society.

FBLA is supported nationally by the National Council for Business Education, and the Indiana State FBLA Program.

Can-Can, "Corncobs" Compose "It"

"It" happened at NAHS this year as the Future Teachers of America presented their annual variety show. "It" opened with the talent of the "Lovin' Touch", an all-female band. Other individual acts followed in a fun-filled fest that offered an escape from the homeroom routine. Called back for an encore were the "Corncobs," a hillbilly trio. Closing the assembly was a male version of the can-can, performed by seven senior members of FTA. The show, presented on April 24 and 26, was a true comedy of sights and sounds.

Members of New Albany's chapter of FTA attended the state convention at Indianapolis on March 30. The convention presented the experience of elections and conclaves. A sing-along banquet broke the monotony of speeches and parliamentary procedure.

Seasonal celebrations added to the activities of the club. A Christmas party, held at Bill Fender's home, and participation in the Easter egg hunt, held at Community Park, were characteristic of projects of the future teachers.

To close out the year, Mr. Hall, the club's sponsor, held a picnic at his farm in Vevay for all members.

FHA Strives for New Horizons

Kathy Mannon cravingly follows the fingers of Mrs. Mary Hauswald as she delicately transforms a simple cake into an alluring and flavorful refreshment.

"Toward New Horizons" fully expresses the goals set by the New Albany Chapter of Future Homemakers of America sponsored by Mrs. Hussung. This year the 33 participating members, all enrolled in home economics classes, concentrated on the state project entitled Y.O.U. (Youth Opportunities Unlimited). This project stresses self-need at home, school, community, state, and world. Projects within the chapter included "Jobs, Careers, and You" and "Individuality Counts," designed to help each family member recognize his abilities and strive for their full development.

FHA is a national organization of pupils studying homemaking in junior and senior high schools in the United States, all with the purpose of emphasizing the importance of home membership and homemaking.

FNC's Picnic Welcomes Mothers

Unburdening the RN of the lesser important tasks, Melba Jones answers a call from the head clerk and receives her daily instructions.

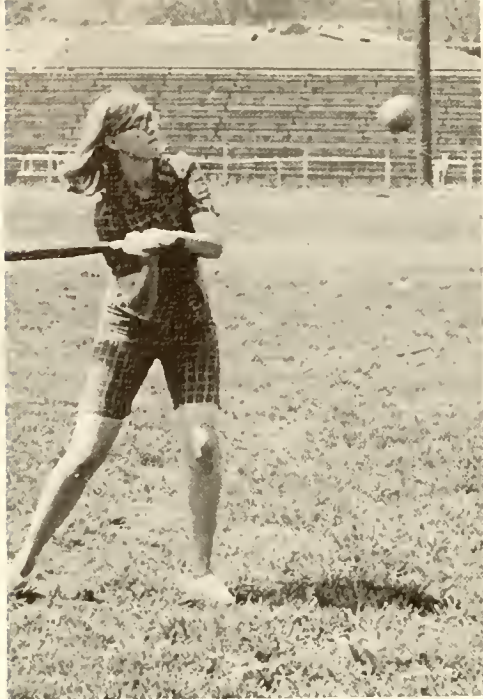

Candy-striper Monica Shortridge applies her nursing know-how gained in FNC in filling out hospital records.

Capping a year of hard and devoted activity, the Future Nurses Club held a mother-daughter picnic. The picnic, which replaced the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet, was a covered-dish affair held at Community Park on May 16.

The annual candlelight installation of officers took place in November. This ceremony also doubled as the pinning rite of all members. Newly installed officers presided over the club after this ceremony, and all members participated in the celebration.

Members of FNC got an early taste of professionalism as they worked in the clinic. Others did volunteer work at Floyd County Memorial Hospital, where they were known as "candy-strippers" because of their gay pink and white-striped uniforms.

The aspiring nurses provided tray favors for patients at the local hospital, as well as sponsoring a basket for a needy family at Christmas.

Connie Singleton is one of the many power hitters for the GAA club as she powerfully swings into another afternoon round.

GAA Swings a Year Of Energetic Sports

Girl's Athletic Association, or more commonly known as G.A.A., strives to stimulate the co-curricular phase of NAHS's girls' P.E. program. This year's total of 25 girls participated in such activities as volleyball, basketball, and softball. Members raised money by selling the crimson and black bulldog tags that adorned the fronts of many students' cars. The club also held bake sales which ranked among the best.

Requirements for membership in G.A.A. are simply that any girl interested and willing to take part in sports may join. She must maintain a "C" average scholastically also.

Alice Snider presided as this year's president and Marsha Harris as vice-president. Connie Singleton acted as treasurer for the club and Patty Zimmerman filled the chair of secretary. Miss Rosa Zirnheld and Miss Sue Hughes sponsored this Athletic Association.

"Mr. Cleans" Recruit Dirty Cars

Frogmen, matmen, oval and round-ballers, racketmen, golf linkers, and all athletes alike comprise one of the oldest and most active clubs in the history of NAHS. The purpose of this club, sponsored by Coach Forrest McCaffry, is to promote better sportsmanship among school teams.

Respectability enables the 49 members of this year's Varsity N Club to participate in charity drives, such as collecting for the March of Dimes and sending Christmas baskets to needy families. The annual Varsity N car wash, featuring a crew of "Mr. Cleans", helped to earn enough money to grant a $100 scholarship to a worthy college-bound athlete.

The spring picnic, the final adjournment of the year, rounded out the club's full activity chart.

Mr. Byrd lectures to Varsity N on police administration. The degree of interest shown in members Dennis Richards, Corky Lang, and Jim Hammond seems to vary.

Comedy results when a timid guy ventures a date with an aggressive girl. This was the situation filmed by New Albany's Photography Club this year. The movie, produced by the amateur photographers under the leadership of Charles Lingenfelter, was presented in color.

Portraying the lead roles were two photography club members, Dietz Wolfe and Virginia Stepp. The film was a visual aid to learning the basic concepts of motion photography with special effects. It was under the direction of Mr. James Adams, club sponsor.

Meeting every Tuesday during the homeroom period, the club specialized in learning the technical aspects of photography. They developed much of their own work in the school dark-room. The club also profited from such experienced speakers as Robert Russell of Russell's Camera Shop.

Square Dancers Stage Assembly

"Swing your partner, do-si-do" is the most common sound emerging from boys' gymnasium during Tuesday homeroom periods. The faculty sponsors, Robert Willman and Damon Sims, call the steps as members all-emand-left and serenade to the lively tunes in general barnyard style.

The enrollment number reflects the popularity and the enthusiasm toward the Square Dance Club. Each year the number of applicants far exceeds the capacity.

The club provides an opportunity for students to cast aside the tensions of study and get into the "swing" of things with this fun and healthful exercise.

The big event of the year for the dancers was the annual school assembly. Besides exhibiting their ability and skill as dancers, they offered colorful entertainment to the faculty and student body.

To Study Broadway Stagecraft

Father Time detains Ron Hutchens and Kathy Erickson a moment in "I Remember Mama," classroom theatre show.

Gary Bilbro tries to impress Ron Hutchens, the supposed honored general, in the senior class play, "The Inspector General."

Fourteen years after its formation, Student Theatre remains a dynamic group adding continually to the cultural growth of NAHS. Via Classroom Theatre, the young dramatists enhanced the understanding of literature with their productions of "Look Homeward, Angel" and "I Remember Mama" in 1968.

All members performed in some capacity in the all-school productions of "Anything Goes" and "Where's Charley?", the fall and spring musicals, respectively. Strictly Student Theatre is the Miniature Musical, offered annually as Christmas cheer to the school system's many elementary schools. "Sophocles the Hyena" was 1968's gift from Student Theatre to the grade-schoolers.

Easter vacation found Mr. Weatherston and four Student Theatre members in New York for a theatre tour. Barbara Mason, Dave Black, Donna Caywood, and George Houghten were the lucky four soaking up the bright lights of Broadway with their advisor.

Boosting sports activities this year were the Junior Boosters—a club for sophomores, sponsored by Mrs. Norma Crews and Mrs. Sharon Brishaber. The club, comprised of 24 members is headed by Ann Rothrock, president. Other club officers are: Kathy Frank, vice-president and Patty Payne, secretary-treasurer. Junior Booster activities included a picnic, but the highlight of the year's events was the JV dance, January 5, featuring the "Ever So Few" and the crowning of the JV Queen, Patty Payne.

Red and black burst forth everywhere this year, as Senior Boosters donned caps and mittens in the school colors to "beef up" their traditional yell block. Attending every basketball game and various other sporting events, these 101 girls backed our Bulldogs in every fight for victory.

Besides boosting the Dogs, the girls presented their annual King of Hearts Dance on January 20. King Greg Carter and his court danced to the music of the "Men" in the Hazelwood gym.

The all-girl club, co-sponsored by Miss Hughes and Miss Zirnheld, also gave Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets to welfare families.

Alpha Paves "Psychedelic Path"

Held on December 9 after the Franklin basketball game, Alpha Tri-Hi-Y's annual Bachelor of the Year Dance had for its theme, "The Psychedelic Path." Amid the flowers and glitter, Ray Briscoe won the bachelor crown.

Chief money-making projects held during the year were pound parties. This money went toward financing a sharing project for a needy family at Christmas and a contribution to the Peace Corps project. Sponsored in late spring was the Sadie Hawkins Dance, an annual vice-versa affair in which Dogpatch apparel prevails, and the style show, featuring the latest local fashions.

Composed of 80 junior and senior girls, Alpha Tri-Hi-Y aims to create, maintain and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character. Each member is required to live up to this purpose as well as maintaining a scholastic average of a "C".

Omega Visits State Legislature

1968's Omega Tri-Hi-Y, sponsored by Mrs. Laura Mellon, had another successful year to put into the club's history. There were 38 junior and senior girls in the club, which was an increase in last year's membership.

The club sponsored many projects such as bake sales, pound parties, rummage sales, and the sale of school stationery. They also distributed baskets to needy families at Christmas.

The club attended the Southern Pre-Legislature and State Legislative Conference held at Bloomington and Indianapolis this year. From this model legislature they learned the process of how bills are voted on and passed.

At the end of the year the club sponsored its annual Mother-Daughter banquet held at Kelley's Old House on May 14.

Using bake sales as a means of financing their projects, the 42 girls of Beta Zeta Chi led a fulfilling year. Under the guidance of Mrs. Catherine Lucas, members of this group worked hard to share blessings of prosperity and health with needy families. At both Christmas and Thanksgiving, Beta Zeta Chi provided an underprivileged family with a basket of food. They also prepared Easter baskets for a needy family with five small children.

Weekly programs ranged from dog exhibitions to a cosmetic demonstration. Jenny Tompkins, who is a member of the Kentucky Kennel Association, brought her two registered cocker spaniels to a meeting and instructed the girls on some of the finer points of caring for pedigreed pups. So much for dog grooming—girl grooming was particularly interesting as a representative of Merle Norman Cosmetics demonstrated proper makeup application, using Kay Chambers as a model.

Barbie Bohn favored members with a talk on Spain and France, both of which she has lived in. Culminating the year's calendar was a picnic with dates at the farm of Becky Troutman on May 18. After eating the basket goodies the girls and their escorts adjourned to Community Park for tennis.

Sophs' Aim — Sense of Citizenship

Hammond (vice-president), Bob Uland, Chuck Jenkins, Steve Triplett, Richard Kimes. (Third row) Tom Brown (treasurer), Scott Denison, Tom Bauder, Brian Nolan, Steve Kerber, Rex

Jeff Mossler and Tom Brown exemplify the proper way to carry out a club meeting as fellow club members Daryl Sisson, Rex Mook, Mike Ottersbach, and Rick Kimes give their undivided attention.

Sophomore Hi-Y, under the sponsorship of Mr. Terry Fleshman, used this year to further develop a sense of good government and citizenship in its members.

To join, a boy must be a sophomore. This Thursday club planned various things, including a football game with Kappa Hi-Y, a club dance, and a picnic.

Membership this year consisted of thirty boys led by Jeff Mossler, president; Don Hammond, vice president; Jim Breece, secretary; Tom Brown, treasurer; Bob Ritz, sergeant-at-arms.

Kappas Investigate Delinquency

Kappa Hi-Y, sponsored by Mr. Dusch, began the year's activities with a swimming party and ended with its annual picnic at Spring Mill. The members and their friends fanned out and explored the various caves and exhibits in the park.

While not swimming or picnicking the junior and senior boys of Kappa Hi-Y vied with Senior Hi-Y in volleyball coming out victorious. Not so easy was football against the Sophomore Hi-Y.

During club periods speakers discussed various aspects of the coming years. A student from Indiana University talked about college life and a policeman discussed juvenile delinquency. These and others helped to provide the young men with the opportunity to better understand the moral and political leadership required by young America.

Sigmas Splash through Semesters

Sigma Hi-Y promotes good citizenship among the boys which make up its membership. This, the club accomplished in various ways mixing good citizenship with fun. During the year of 1968 Sigma Hi-Y delivered Easter baskets to children of needy families and helped the Easter spirit along by assisting in an egg hunt at Binford Park. Films on sporting events headlined a number of the Tuesday club meetings.

Club sponsor was Mr. Gary Austin. Presiding over the meetings was Joe Pinnick. Backing him up were Bob Hubbuch, vice-president; John Childress, secretary-treasurer; Terry Hunt, sgt.-at-arms.

Far from being "wet blankets" Sigmas had great times via several splash parties at the Scribner pool, where they indulged in green ball, water tag, and other splashing diversions.

Despite its triteness, the expression "busy as bees" was indeed the metaphorical comparison that must be applied to the senior and junior boys of Senior Hi-Y under the leadership of Mr. James Becker. From bake sales, those Betty Crocker endeavors aimed at appeasing NAHS's sweet tooth desires, to the wet and wild hayrides and car washes, Senior Hi-Y was constantly alive with activity.

The club reached the paragon of its accomplishments when three members journeyed to the Indiana capital in Indianapolis on March 29, 30, 31 to participate in the State Youth in Government Weekend.

Daryl Richardson, as a state senator, Roger Turner, as a state representative, and Marvin Singleton, as state committee chairman, combined their efforts to push a bill on state support for distressed schools through the state's legislative process.

VICA's first employer-employee banquet provided an opportunity for Sharon Poindexter, Mr. William Eltzroth, David Ridge, Mr. Leslie Kerr, Kevin Stewart, and Mr. Hewitt Colvin to partake of a leisurely meal.

Cooperative training section of VICA, Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, arrived at NAHS this year. Industrial arts students composed the club membership. Personal growth, community understanding, vocational-youth cooperation and good public relations comprise the main goals of VICA.

When not planning social sprees, the members got down to their regular business—training for jobs. The regular club period provided time in which the sponsor answered questions of the members.

Sponsoring an Employer-Employee Banquet was the main club activity this year. The boys in VICA held after-school jobs and invited their employers to attend. The best employees received special recognition. VICA's faculty sponsor, Mr. Genet, plans to make this banquet an annual event.

Two state officers and one state advertising winner heaped accolades upon the New Albany chapter of Distributive Education Clubs of America. Presiding over 69 Hoosier chapters was G. L. Russell, while state veep was Beverly Beckman. Victory came to Linda Ogden as she became first place winner in the junior advertising division at the state contests held in Indianapolis.

DECA members attended workshops, hosted other cities at formal initiations and installations of officers, had tours, conducted job interviews and speech contests, participated in regional and state contests, and traveled to Houston, Texas, for the National Leadership Conference.

Giving baskets to the needy at Thanksgiving and Easter, donating toys and clothing at Christmas, contributing to the DECA scholarship fund, working with the Chamber of Commerce, aiding the March of Dimes, and heading the Indiana booth at the National Leadership Conference rounded out the agenda.

The final function was the employer-employee banquet honoring on-the-job training sponsors. Guests were speaker Rupert M. Nelson, realtor-developer, and visitors from the State Department of Education.

This year the Distributive Education Clubs of America had 35 members. Mrs. Robert Zabel, the club's sponsor, selected junior students who were in distributive education and interested in this for a vocation. The purpose of this club is to develop future leaders for marketing and distribution. The junior club was formed as a part of the senior organization, DECA.

Projects included speakers in various businesses and industry with career studies following; field trips to warehouses and stores, local contests in five activities areas—public speaking, advertising layout, display, salesmanship, and job interview—and studies in marketing. The group gave gifts of food and clothing at Christmas and spring to needy families, and made hospital tray favors.

The club officers attended the regional parliamentary procedure workshop at Clarksville High. Members participated in the state election of officers in Indianapolis at the State House (Nov. 11), regional contest at Clarksville High in March, state contest in Indianapolis in April, and the National Leadership Conference in Houston, Texas, in May. Attending the conference in Houston were Linda Ogden, who won the state layout contest, Linda Herman, and Sandra Meyer. New Albany's Chapter was responsible for the Indiana Booth at this conference and these three girls manned the booth. Junior DE distributed various information packets and giveaways from their area including biscuit can banks and Historic New Albany wooden discs.

Mrs. Zabel presents to Linda Ogden a medal won for her efforts in and winning the state layout contest.

Masked Members Attend German's Faschingsball

Held at Slate Run School on January 20, the German Club's Faschingsball featured skits, records, refreshments, and a slave auction. Each member wore a costume to this carnival-type celebration in commemoration of the beginning of the Lenten season.

Hasenour's was the site of the Initiation Banquet, where the 35 members and sponsor, Miss Marcella Karnes, enjoyed German food. Also present was Hans Rollmann, a guest speaker from Bloomington, Indiana, who is a native of Germany.

Besides weekly programs headlined by Mr. James Dickman and Ginny Ehalt, who spoke on their summer trips abroad, the German Club also went Christmas caroling, participated in an Easter egg hunt at Community Park, held a bake sale and a car wash, created a skit in German satirizing T-Bar-V for the JCL Roman Banquet, and hiked upon the arrival of spring.

Enrollment in German class is the only requirement of becoming a club member. Increasing interest in and knowledge of the German language and culture is the main purpose of the club.

Pausing from the Faschingsball festivities is the sponsor, Miss Marcella Karnes, who is attired in native German dress.

Enjoying a skit presented at the annual Faschingsball by their fellow club members are Scott Graham, Tom West, Joe Himmelheber, and John Goodyear.

Junior Classical League, JCL, is the Latin club at NAHS. Guiding activities for this past school year were Miss Alice Ranck, Mrs. Evelyn Simms, faculty sponsors; and Alan Sonner, 1st consul. These three steered members through a bursting agenda that included sheer entertainment as well as cultural and educational activities.

Color slides of foreign countries provided two special programs on meeting days. Mrs. Jane Hand favored members with a slide-lecture program on her European jaunt of last summer. Mr. Dickman did likewise on his trip to Russia.

JCL kept to the tradition in that members participated in the annual Slave Auction, held this year during club period in November; the Saturnalia Party, which is symbolic of Roman Christmas; the Roman Banquet, held April 27 at Green Valley School; and the Olympic Games, held at NAHS's track on May 23.

Lying prone in grandiose fashion reminiscent of the "glory that was Rome," Latin students Ricky Summers, John Dietrich, and Jim Baker revel in the classical atmosphere.

Mardi Gras Enhances Club Year coronation by President Joy Koshewa. Onlookers are Irene Klotz and Cindy Obremski (treasurer).

Le Cercle Francais completed a collage of activities during the 1967-68 school year. The 54 members flavored Christmas "international" with their caroling. New this year was the Mardi Gras festival filled with food and fun. Pound parties, games, the yearly flea market, speakers including Mr. James Dickman and Miss Karnes, and the annual Feast of the Kings festooned the year with entertainment. Selected as the Feast of the Kings monarchs were King Mike Carnighan and Queen Linda Van Winkle. This year the French Club competed with Wranglers for the College Bowl title.

To familiarize its members with foreign customs and life, the French Club's only prerequisites to membership are enrollment in a French class and interest in the organization, co-sponsored by Mrs. Phyllis Neely and Mrs. Jane Hand.

The Annex? Flavor It Spanish

In their annual progressive dinner, the Spanish Club made tacos and other south-of-the-border delights. First in line is Vickie Clark while Marybeth Davenport, Debbie Webb, and Janet Shuman eagerly await their turn.

El Circulo Espanol encouraged an interest in and appreciation of Spanish culture. All 34 members of the club demonstrated an interest in the peoples and countries of Spanish descent.

This year the Spanish Club assumed the responsibility of keeping the bulletin board in the Annex decorated. At Christmas, in keeping with the Spanish tradition, the members broke a gaily decorated pinata, with surprises scattering over the room. They also gave a basket to a needy family. In February they held their progressive dinner with Spanish dishes being the main attraction.

Three guest speakers highlighted the Tuesday club periods. Barbie Bohn showed slides and told of her stay in Spain. Kathy Waters gave an account of ancient Spanish history. The third speaker, Elizabeth Corrales, was a native of Peru. Although she knew little English, she answered questions and talked to the members through the translation of Mrs. Davis, the club's sponsor.

Apprentices Acquire "Tool Box"

(Right) Jim Slider and John Roll hammer the last nails to the tarpaper before shingling the roof of the newly built house.

To the average individual carpentry and anatomy seem incongruously related, yet to the members of the Vocational Building Trades Department the transformation of the "skeleton" of a house to a finished product is routine. Never since the famed industriousness of the Seven Dwarfs and Three Pigs has there been a more hardworking collection of laborers.

Realizing that experience is the best teacher, members of the vocational organization applied classroom knowledge to the practical task of constructing a home that values between $20,000 and $30,000.

Under the guidance of Mr. Tom Yeager, the Vocational Building Trades group worked on NAHS's fourth project house. Membership is limited to 12 sophomores, juniors, or seniors who show an avid and serious interest in the carpentry and contracting vocation. The pinnacle of the 1967-68 school year, aside from the construction of the totally electric home, was the acquisition of a new, navy blue, Vocational Building Trades bus, which serves as a mobile "tool box."

New Club Launches Active Year

"Learning to do, doing to learn. Earning to live, living to serve." Under this motto, New Albany's first horticulture club mapped a course for future horticulturists to follow.

The club renovated the football field and a section of the school lawn as part of its school lawn improvement plan. Trees and shrubs donated by the club added to the beautification drive.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. James Ward, the club offered services to the community as well as to the school. Each member collected repairable toys for distribution at Christmas. In addition, they prepared four Christmas baskets for the needy.

Horticulturists maintained the school greenhouse and produced over 2000 varieties of plants for public sale.

For variety the club sponsored a talent contest, an impromptu speaking contest, and basketball and swimming parties.

Junior Kathy Martin represented the New Albany Chapter of Horticulture Clubs in the district Sweetheart Contest.

HAPPINESS IS breaking the tape before anyone else . . . cracking a record in the 200-yard freestyle . . . sinking a 20-foot putt on the eighteenth hole . . . executing a perfect backhand to win the state tennis championship . . . pinning a man with five seconds to go . . . hitting the baseball out of Kiwanis park for the winning home run . . . carrying the football 50 yards for a decisive touchdown . . . landing upright after a roundoff in the gymnastics assembly. This is happiness at New Albany High School.

The 1967 New Albany High School football team compiled a 6-2-2 record this season which included five teams in the state's top ten. The Bulldogs finished sixth by the AP rating polls.

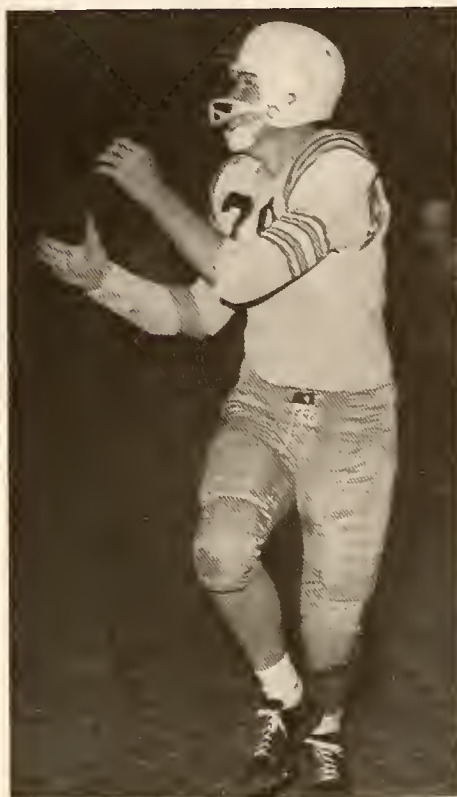

Larry Ricke led the air attack passing good for 1,428 yards, while full-back Dutch Vigar scrambled 439 yards.

Excluding two tie games, the Bulldogs were only five points away from a perfect season.

Greg Carter raced a total of 434 yards after receiving 21 Ricke passes. Co-captains Mike Pierce and Terry Hunt led the strong defensive unit to a rewarding year.

Thwart Devils in Seasonal Game

Anything goes as "Captain Cooe" and his bench crew" rap up the last seconds of the NA-Columbus tourney loss.

An inexperienced Bulldog basketball team took the floor against the state's 7th ranked Southport Cardinal squad to initiate the 1967-68 season. A disappointing 74-53 loss began a season highlighted by ups and downs which provided an exciting variety of Hoosier Hysteria.

Playing the underdog role for the majority of the year, the Bulldogs of Coach Jim Morris struggled through a 10-13 season that included four losses to teams in the state's top ten category. The roundballers managed a 3-5 SIAC record and a highly respectable second-place finish in the Columbus Holiday Tournament. The dogs added to the seasonal festivities by emerging with an upset victory over Terre Haute Gerstmeyer before bowing in the final game to the state's number one team, the host Columbus Bulldogs.

Leading NAHS in rebounding was Dennis Morrison, in scoring Greg Carter, and in free throw percentage Ray Briscoe.

Because the squad was outmanned in many games, NA resorted to a flexible 1-3-1 or 2-1-2 zone defense and an effective 3-1-1 full and half-court press attack.

Senior tri-captains were: Ray Briscoe, Greg Carter, and Jerry Payton.

Coach Jim Morris instills his final-second hopes and plans in his squad.

Clayton Is

In the season opener the NAHS tracksters defeated Male High School, the defending Kentucky state champs. Other satisfying wins were over arch-rivals Providence and Jeffersonville. Disappointments came when NA placed only 3rd in SIAC and 4th in the Regional Meets.

The varsity trackmen of Coach Damon Sims did, however, finish their season on May 25 in Indianapolis as four seniors—Ron Clayton, Mike Pierce, Greg Carter, and Bill Barrett—battled against the top dash, distance, and field event specialists in the state of Indiana. Ron Clayton came away with the state low hurdles crown while Greg Carter finished seventh in the 100 yd. dash.

Clayton was no surprise as the champ since he led the state throughout the season in the low hurdles with a time of 19.1 and in the highs with a 14.5. A heave of 54' 11½" placed shotputter Mike Pierce in contention with the state's best. A time of 4:33.6 in the mile singled out junior Steve Wolfe as a next season hopeful along with Larry Parker, a top hurdler.

Completing a third undefeated season, New Albany's tennis team compiled a 19-0 record by defeating some of Indiana's and Kentucky's top teams.

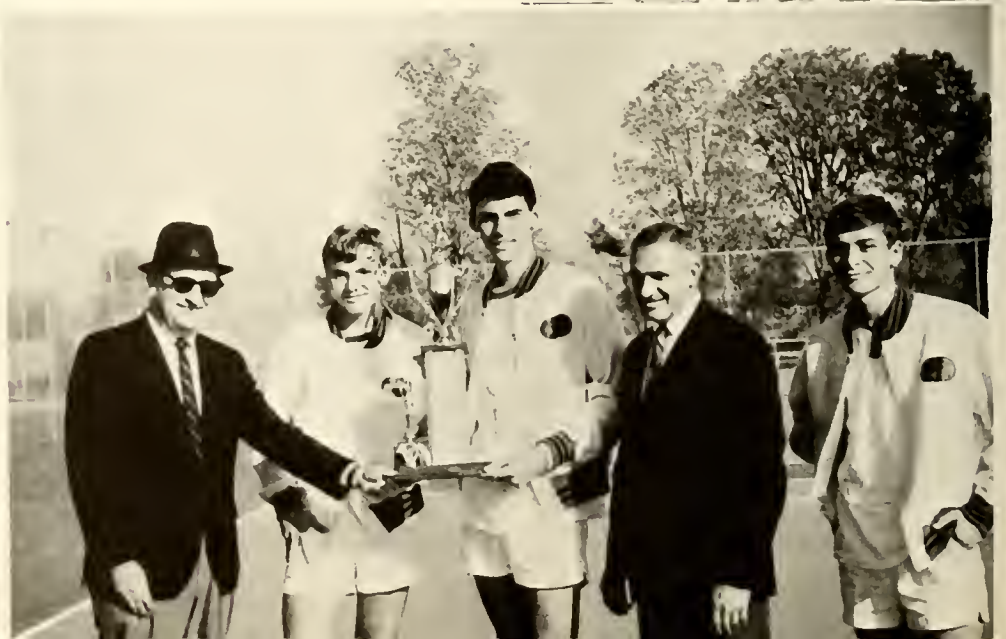

Veterans Ray Briscoe, Sam Peden, and Bill Ellis ended their stay on NAHS's team having aided in capturing a 94-1 four-year slate. The acme of the 1968 team's achievement was gaining Indiana's first state tennis championship. Another laurel garnered during the 67-68 campaign was the racqueteers' fifth consecutive triumph in the SIAC tourney. This conference victory marked the first time in its history that New Albany has accomplished a "clean sweep." Constituting the SIAC "clean sweep" was a win in all four divisions—the no. 1, 2, and 3 singles and the no. 1 doubles.

Senior stalwarts Sam Peden and Nagib Mussalli ended the season undefeated.

After a spring season plagued by heavy rains, causing cancellations and postponements, New Albany's diamond men displayed amazing resiliency and dependability. New Albany's rock 'em, sock 'em baseball team completed its 20th consecutive winning season under the piloting of Coach Stan Sajko.

Racking up a creditable 19-9 record, the batmen were instrumental in capturing the All-Sports Trophy of the Southern Indiana Athletic Conference for NAHS.

After an easy fan-through in the state sectional where the sluggers defeated North Central, Morgan Township, and Paoli, Sajko's hardball bruisers suffered a loss of 9-1 to Clarksville in the final game of the state baseball regional.

Spirits revived three nights later, however, as the scrapping Bulldogs won an important doubleheader from Evansville Bosse by scores of 8-0 and 12-3. Winning of these games, rained out during regular season, completed a perfect season in the SIAC for the New Albany batmen and assured them of the conference title.

Winner of the batting championship was junior Dennis Richards, who smashed his way to the top with a .278 average for the year.

Sajko relied on a quartet, comprised of three seniors and one junior, to handle the pitching duties for the 1968 season. They were senior Jerry Peyton with a 7-3 record, senior Tim Beemer with a 9-4 record, senior Ron Toran with a 1-1 record, and junior Joe Queen with a 2-1 record.

Skins Defeat Shirts to Clinch Intramurals

A loose ball evokes confusion as three members of the intramural basketball teams tussle for its possession.

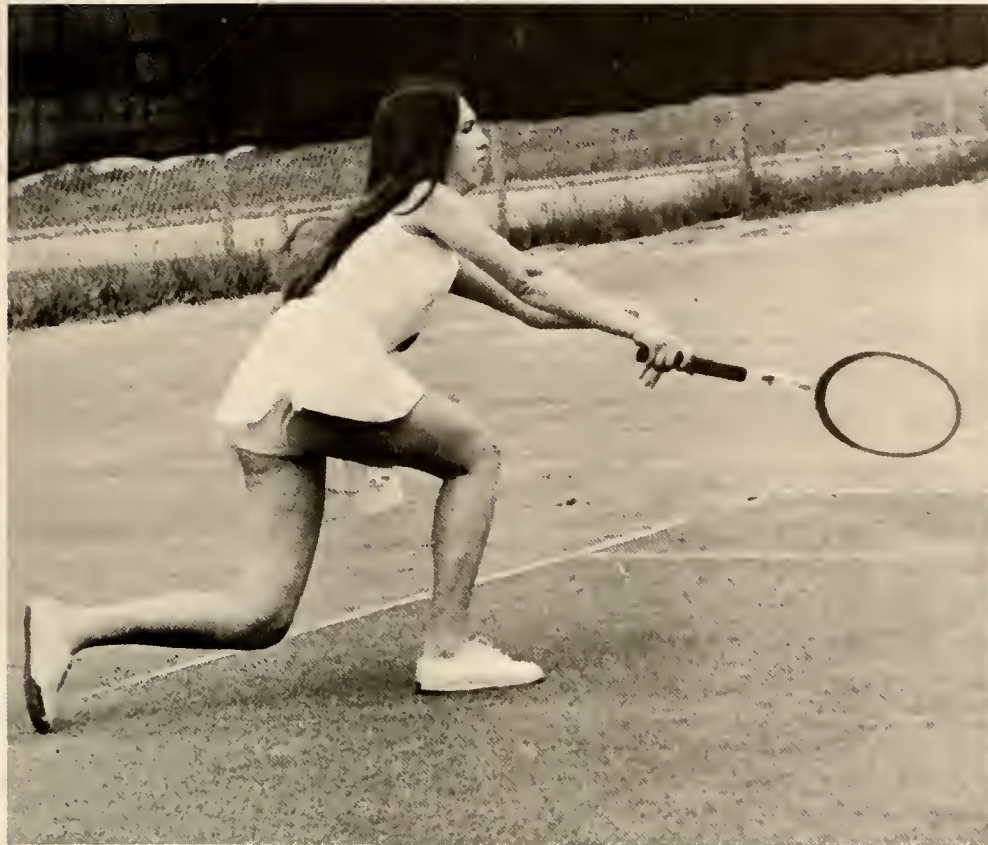

Two nights and two sponsors, Mr. Damon Sims and Mr. Stan Sajko, provided a needed outlet for some 150 New Albany High School basketball enthusiasts. Perspiration, excitement, and floor burns were profuse, but points came sparingly. Few Monday or Tuesday evenings came with flourishes in scoring; however, each night produced good clean fun among the boys.

Such standouts as Benny Snyder, Corky Lang, Jim Hickerson, and John Perkins led their respective teams to berths in the annual play-off tournament. But as the season drew to a close, all boys participating agreed that this season was both fun and a learning process in sportsmanship.

With ball in hand, Bill Ellis tries to evade the oncoming rush of Richie McCombs.

Female Racqueteers Cop Victory

New Albany's female tennis team completed its second season with one win, one loss, and one rained-out match. The girls defeated Pleasure Ridge High School, a tough Louisville squad, by the margin of 8-0 and were thrown for a loss, but not without a struggle, to another Louisville team—Atherton, with a score 2-6.

The girls' team is led by the freshman varsity beginner, Jeanne McClure, who presently holds the number one position. Coach Barbara Thrasher has just completed her second year of heading the New Albany girls' tennis team. Since the team lost no girls to graduation, the season added strength of experience to the squad.

Along with hemlines, the status of the NAHS coed rose to new heights in 1968. This leap year was highlighted by frenzied sounds of frantic females, churning waters, and graceful gymnastic routines. The sounds that echoed and the sights that lingered established 1968 as the year of "firsts for females."

Under the coaching of Mrs. Gary Austin, a gymnastics team emerged and performed during halftimes of basketball games.

Despite losses to Sacred Heart and Atherton, the first girls' tank team looks forward to a bright future.

Vincennes University hosted the National Cheerleading Institute where NAHS girls again excelled. Honors included: five 1st place ribbons, a 2nd place team trophy in the 500-girl camp, a special award of Mr. Athletic bestowed upon Dwight McPheeters, and membership in the National Cheerleading Association awarded Brenda Sullivan.

Jerry Payton . . . vice-president

Brenda Wright . . . secretary

Ginny Ehalt . . . treasurer

Ending a twelve-year career entails extensive preparation, as members of the Senior Executive Committee discovered this year. Like the junior class, the seniors elect one girl and one boy from each homeroom to take part in the activities of the Senior Executive Committee.

The main responsibility of the committee included the planning of graduation exercises, class day, and baccalaureate festivities. The committee divided into various sub-committees, each of which concentrated on one specific aspect of the grand finale. The cards and announcements committee ordered styles for the formal graduation announcements and the personal cards for seniors. A faculty honors and awards committee presented the program of recognitions and awards to the graduating recipients. Various other committees decided floral arrangements, color schemes, and programming. To break the solemnity to the ceremonies, the picnic committee planned the annual class day picnic.

The individual committees worked under the leadership of the senior class officers. Heading the committees were Louis Garrison, president; Jerry Payton, vice-president; Brenda Wright, secretary; and Ginny Ehalt, treasurer.

Rick Warren ... president

D. J. Hines ... vice-president

Candis Shulz ... secretary

Cynthia Stith ... treasurer

A chance to dance on the "Isle of Enchantment" was a dream fulfilled for the graduating seniors by the Junior Executive Committee this year. The committee, composed of one boy and one girl chosen from each junior home-room, planned the 1968 Junior-Senior Prom around this theme.

The Junior Executive Committee focused its attention on three major projects which were completed throughout the year. Of the three, the most important and time consuming was making plans for the prom. Besides a selection of a suitable theme, the committee made decisions concerning such essential details as the location and the band for the annual festivities.

Another top priority project of the committee was the nomination and election for junior class officers in November. All nominees must prove to be efficient and capable leaders. The four persons who were elected were responsible for heading one of four major prom-planning committees. Heading the committees for 1968 were Rick Warren, president; D. J. Hines, vice-president; Candis Shulz, secretary; and Cynthia Stith, treasurer.

The last major activity of the committee was the nominations for senior class officers in May. Again efficient and capable leaders were required as seniors must plan for the main activity of their high school career, graduation.

HAPPINESS IS buying a formal for the Senior Prom . . . searching the stores for that perfect class day dress . . . going downtown after school to window shop . . . seeing the waitress finally bringing the food . . . finding paper on sale when the money supply is running low . . . putting that new class ring on for the very first time . . . discovering that special car has been marked down fifty dollars . . . enjoying a soda at the local hangout. This is happiness at New Albany High School.

What is happiness?
We've tried to show it
By our pictures and words,
But, of course, it's only a guess.
To each person at NAHS
Happiness is relative,
It changes, or remains the same.
To us happiness is one thing,
A finished yearbook
And satisfied readers. If our goal
Has been achieved—we are happy.
